

Eric Mojica Bio

Eric began his career in the mortgage industry in 2000 as a loan officer with Quicken Loans, leaving after 4 years as an executive mortgage banker. After that, he spent a year as a Loan Officer in the wholesale channel before moving to CitiMortgage Retail lending for 2 years. Eric left the mortgage industry in 2008 to work in pharmaceutical sales, which provided world-class sales training and experience working B2B. In 2012, he returned to the mortgage industry with United Wholesale Mortgage and advanced to a team leader role and then to an assistant vice president role within 3 years. Since 2019, Eric has been the VP of Sales and helps lead a sales team of over 700 inside account executives as they work to keep UWM the #1 wholesale lender and the #2 overall mortgage lender in the nation. Eric has two children who he spends most of his free time with, and they enjoy tennis and eating out at new restaurants.
